OPA—The Black Market—and YOU

Who Puts the 'No' on Your Table?

By WARREN STEVENS

Down in Washington a bureaucrat dictates a new order—and a million Greater Boston consumers go without meat.

That didn't happen just today or yesterday, or last week, to explain why this area is in the third month of a meat and poultry famine.

That has been going on ever since rationing started. It's a sad story of bungling incompetence, of confusing, conflicting regulations which have wrought a complete breakdown of the rationing program here.

As usual, it is YOU—the average citizen—who gets it in the neck.

For it is the average citizen and head of a family who can find no meat for his table and no poultry to take its place.

A meat famine?

Famine in the midst of plenty!

Fresh meat? Thousands and thousands of pounds of it are coming into Boston every week. Poultry? There are tons of it and producers expect to break every record this year.

Where is it? Well, most of it goes through perfectly legitimate routes to hotels, restaurants and high-priced eating spots because of a stupid, bureaucratic regulation which permits packers to obtain a higher ceiling price from these outlets than from retailers.

Some of the rest finds its way to the "black market" and the merest trickle finally reaches retail shops for YOU.

Mr. Average Citizen has two alternatives.

In either case, he must pay the price.

He can "dine out" at hotels, restaurants or eating spots if his purse can stand it—but the average family can't stand that sort of a drain.

Or, he can pocket his scruples, forget the son fighting overseas, go into the well-supplied "black market" and get meat and poultry at well above fair prices.

Memorial Day week—remember the empty meat counters?—was an example of the straits to which Boston has been reduced by bungling of food distribution.

Retailers and consumers assumed meat shipments had been curtailed 90 per cent.

BIG 3 TO CLEAR WAY FOR PEACE

—Truman

Just Before The Battle

All was peaceful at the Common Bondstand on May 13 when this photo was taken, with Joan Fontaine standing under the umbrella held by Jane Wyman while Mayor John E. Kerrigan (left) looks on. According to our correspondent the officer at the right handed the umbrella to Miss Wyman, who held it over Miss Fontaine while she stood in the pouring rain talking to the crowd. Words, harsh words, were used on both sides, it is said.

Japs Set Fire To Borneo Oil

By JAMES HUTCHESON

BRUNEI BAY, Borneo, June 13 (AP)—The Japanese fired west Borneo's rich Seria oil field storage tanks last night—even as Allied forces did before the Nips captured this island with its vast stores of oil early in the war.

Hundreds of thousands of gallons must have been destroyed last night alone. I counted 18 tank infernos from a PT-boat which went within a mile of the shore in the Seria vicinity.

Seria is 60 miles south of the point where Australian troops landed three days ago on the Borneo mainland at Brunei Bay.

The Aussies sped toward Seria in a small scale amphibious landing on the Brunei river, 15 miles from the original invasion point, and cut behind Japanese opposing the push toward Brunei.

The main force was nine miles from Brunei when the amphibious operation was made to close the pincer.

Meanwhile the Australian Ninth Division infantry pushed ahead steadily against only light to moderate opposition on two main fronts as Lt. Gen. R. L. Morshead predicted "the real fighting is yet to come."

He said the Borneo campaign will be impeded by rivers, swamps, mountains and lack of roads and foresaw a "tedious and arduous campaign."

Don Starr, representing the combined American press, radioed that the Sultan at Brooketon presumably had fled to the mountains, along with his storied harem, to await a safe return under British rule.

Fifty British civil administration officials raised the Union Jack over government house in Victoria Town, Labuan Island.

Fighting on Labuan was stiffer than that encountered on the main island, but the veteran "Rats of Tobruk," supplemented by Australian (dismounted) cavalry Commando units, secured a perimeter two miles north of captured Labuan airfield. They sent patrols through the low rolling hills.

Royal Australian and American 13th Air Force bombers and fighters provided close support for the advancing ground forces. On Labuan Island, Tambalai airstrip, still held by the enemy, was hit heavily while other planes smashed at Jesselton on the mainland to the north and at Weston and Beaufort along the northeast rim of the broad, green waters of Brunei bay.

In 170 sorties, Liberators, Mitchells, Lightnings and Beaufighters dropped 163 tons on selected targets in this area.

Jap Okinawa Lines Cracked

By RICHARD O'MALLEY

GUAM, June 13 (AP)—Simultaneous American predawn attacks on both flanks of Yaeju plateau caught the Japs napping and apparently cracked their last ditch defense line on Okinawa, front dispatches reported today.

The Japs came to life at daybreak and attacked with machine guns and knee mortars. But it was too late.

Cliff-scaling Seventh Division infantrymen held the eastern anchor of the Nipponese suicide line. First Division Marines were astride a ridge at the western anchor, three miles away. And from the north, U. S. field artillery unleashed one of the heaviest barrages of the campaign against two concentrations of the 10,000 to 15,000 enemy troops dug into caves atop the plateau.

Fighting was so fierce that in 36 hours' battling for the slope of one hill, 137 men in one Marine company, including all officers, were killed or wounded. That is more than half the company's strength.

Japanese, including at least one woman in man soldier's uniform, charged Marine lines during the night with satchel bombs. They blew up like firecrackers when hit.

U. S. Infantrymen met counter-attacks with machine guns and a brand new flame-thrower technique. Machine guns were packed to the top of the escarpment on the backs of Yanks scaling ropes, hand over hand. Tankmen brought flame-spewing 500-foot hose extensions connected to their tanks at the base of the cliff.

Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopking told how elements of Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh Infantry Division got atop Hill 95 on the east flank of the escarpment by first spraying the summit with flames from a hose attached to a tank.

Dive Bombers Shatter Japs

MANILA, June 13 (AP) — Marine dauntless dive bombers smashed Japanese resistance east of Davao river on Mindanao and made possible capture of Mandog town by the 24th Infantry Division, Gen. MacArthur's communique reported today.

Fighting still was intense in hills near Davao city. Typical was the experience of a 34th Infantry Regiment patrol reconnoitering a pocket into which the Japanese were squeezed. They ran into an almost perfect trap. As the patrol, led by Sgt. Joseph W. Helwig, Ashland, Pa., reached a steep cliff by river, a superior Jap force attacked from flanks and rear.

Chinese Drive Nears Wenchow

CHUNGKING, June 13 (AP)—Chinese troops following up the Japanese withdrawal from the Foochow area today recaptured Julan, only 15 miles south of Wenchow, after winning Pingyang 10 miles farther south, the Chinese high command announced today.

Earlier, the Chinese announced recapture of Hoyun, 105 miles northeast of Canton, but disclosed the Japs had regained Ishan, western bastion of the former U. S. air base city of Liuchow.

Truman Reveals 'Big 3' Call to Lay Peace Plans

By ROBERT G. NIXON

WASHINGTON, June 13 (INS)—President Truman officially announced today that the purpose of the coming meeting of the "Big Three" is to prepare the ground for a formal peace conference. In a lengthy report on vexing world problems Mr. Truman disclosed that the Moscow and London conferences of Harry L. Hopkins and Joseph E. Davies had cleared the way for complete solution of the Polish problem and other major difficulties.

In an unusual action, Mr. Truman permitted direct quotation of a portion of his most comprehensive public discussion of foreign affairs since he became President.

In a formal statement he said:

"The all important thing which confronts us is that the unity, mutual confidence, and respect which resulted in the military victory should be continued to make secure a just and durable peace.

"In order to secure an interchange of views more satisfactorily and quickly than by cable, I sent Mr. Hopkins to Moscow and Mr. Davies to London.

"Their discussions covered the arrangements for the time and place of the meeting of Prime Minister Churchill, Marshal Stalin and myself, as to what would be most convenient for all three.

"Since their return, Mr Hopkins and Mr. Davies have made their reports to me.

"The results have been completely satisfactory and gratifying."

The President gave his news conference these results of the international conferences which were conducted over the last two weeks:

1—That Hopkins' mission had brought definite progress toward a settlement of the Polish problem.

2—That Hopkins' conversations with Stalin and other Russian leaders had persuaded the Soviet to reverse its stand on the veto question before the United Nations Conference at San Francisco.

3—That while there was a discussion of the Russian arrest of the 16 Poles, no solution was reached on this subject, but everything possible is being done in their behalf by the United States and Great Britain.

4—That the time and place of the "Big Three" conference has been settled, but will be kept secret until the conversations are actually under way.

5—That there is no change in

Okinawa's Fall Dooms Suzuki

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—Tokyo's Suzuki government has grabbed more power than any other cabinet in Japanese history, but Washington observers would not be surprised to see it resign when Okinawa falls.

That is the Japanese pattern. Tojo quit when Saipan fell, and Koiso stepped down after the loss of Iwo Jima.

But officials here, charged with watching Japanese developments, cautioned today that regardless of whether the cabinet of Premier Adm. Suzuki resigns or not, it now has unprecedented power to rule by decree.

These officials, asking anonymity, threw down harder than ever rumors that the Suzuki cabinet—or its successor—might make a definite peace bid within the predictable future.

Most popular rumor of this kind is the Paris report of a Domei broadcast saying Prince Fumimaro Konoye was going to Moscow to nail down Soviet neutrality, possibly seek Russian mediation in a peace offer to America and Britain.

Despite the rumors, officials insist that despite the damage to Japan's main cities and the loss of her shipping with consequent food shortages, the Japanese show every evidence of going ahead with plans to fight to the last.

Jap Army Takes Over All Truck Transport

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13 (AP)—The Japanese army took over control of motor truck and other "small freight transportation" today as Premier Suzuki's government acted to put into effect the "wartime emergency measure" granted by the four-day Diet session ending yesterday.

Domei News Agency said the move, because of "recently intensified enemy air raids, is mainly designed to facilitate and speed up transportation of military supplies within the homeland."

Another broadcast, likewise recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, reported a "special shuffle" of the Japanese education ministry.

1-Man Massacre Kills 30 Japs

By AL DOPKING

OKINAWA, June 12 (Delayed) (AP) — PFC Clarence B. Craft, Santa Ana, Cal., in a one-man massacre, killed 30 Japs and drove a wedge that, his regimental commander said, helped snap the Japs' Shuri defense line.

Fellow doughboys told today how Craft, almost single-handed, wiped out a strong Jap pocket in 10 to 15 minutes.

Craft, married and the father of a four-year-old son, made his one-man assault on a 450-foot hill when elements of the 96th Infantry Division were pinned down by intense machine-gun fire, and for 10 days, Japs had held up two battalions.

Two flanks of two divisions couldn't move until it was seized.

On May 31, a company and two platoons assaulted the hill again, and Craft went into action.

He began tossing grenades into trenches and foxholes as men from his platoon passed them up to him. He straddled a trench, pouring fire from his Garand down into it. Then he jumped in, mowing down Japs as they got to him.

He knocked out a heavy machine-gun and its crew as he strode through the trench. He drove the Japs he didn't kill into a hillside cave, then sealed it with a demolition charge.

Fifty-eight Jap bodies, three "knee" mortars, three machine-guns, about 80 rifles and ammunition littered the hill when the fight was over. Craft himself fired five clips of rifle ammunition and threw 48 grenades. He estimated he killed 25 with rifle fire, the remainder with grenades.

Grenades thrown by his buddies, two of whom were wounded, accounted for the other Japs.

Craft, crediting covering fire from his buddies with making his fight possible, said he was lucky to come out unscratched.

Lt. Roy L. Barnes, executive officer of G Company of the 382nd Regiment, said that while he saw the whole action he could think only: "That damn fool is determined to get out of the Army, either via a Medal of Honor—or dead."

Craft, a former truck driver, joined the 96th Division here late in April. He had not killed a Jap before.

Who Is Responsible For Food Bungling?

The drastic shortage was an inevitable result.

Nothing is farther from the truth.

By conservative figures—for packers are under no obligation to reveal such figures to the government—a total of 2,207,560 pounds of Western dressed meat reached this market area that week.

In the corresponding week of 1944, 2,555,095 pounds of meat reached this market!

Simple mathematics prove the supply of beef, lamb, veal and mutton reaching Boston in Memorial Day week was only 13.6 per cent less than the quantity received a year previous.

In other words, there was no famine at all! Oh, yeah?

The only famine is one of brains among Washington bureaucrats whose continual fumbling and bungling finally has brought about virtually complete wreckage of fair meat distribution in Boston and every other meat-consuming area.

The War Food Administration is responsible for even distribution of foodstuffs. The Office of Price Administration is charged with keeping prices in control.

Normally, two such agencies would be expected to work hand-in-hand.

Instead, they have been fighting tooth and nail from the start.

Marketmen and retailers have tried valiantly to cooperate with both agencies, to reap only confusion and chaos.

The WFA, as far back as 1942, discontinued its daily reports on meat arrivals here. There has been no way since of determining the exact quantity of meat shipped to Boston.

There is no compulsion on packers to tell how much meat has been received. There is no regulation or control of distribution, except by the packers, who, naturally, have switched from supplying retail dealers to selling to hotels and restaurants, authorized to pay higher ceiling prices under OPA.

With meat supplies at the lowest ebb in history the OPA stepped in to complicate the situation with an April 30 directive curtailing slaughtering by non-federally inspected plants.

It made no difference that many Greater Boston meat retailers depended on this type of slaughtering for much of their supply.

OPA claimed the directive was part of a ten-point, four-agency program to bring about better distribution of meat by pushing larger quantities into federally-inspected slaughtering plants, the only source from which the armed forces may buy.

Its net result has been to distribute practically no meat to Boston. Yet other cities, where meat consumption requirements are less, wallow in supplies.

The local slaughterers are left holding the bag.

By the directive, although the livestock is available in abundance, they are permitted to slaughter in May and June only 75 per cent of the number of cattle they killed in these months last year and only 50 per cent of hogs.

The result has been an increase in "bootleg" slaughtering and warnings from authorities in this state, New Hampshire and New York of the coming of a mechanized version of the old time western rustler.

Cattle thieves are active in the three states and owners of isolated herds have been warned to guard them.

In several places in Massachusetts recently, heads of cows have been found and other evidence that "rustlers" have butchered them on the spot under unsanitary conditions and rushed the meat to "black market" outlets.

The poultry shortage is a result of the failure of the meat distribution program.

Consumers turned to unrationed poultry when they couldn't find meat. Soon the demand far exceeded the supply. The "black market" took over.

So widespread did the operations become and so profitable did dealings in the New York "black market" grow that Boston's poultry market has been bypassed.

Passage of emergency seizure laws by Massachusetts and other New England states resulted in the obtaining of enough poultry to supply state hospitals and institutions with some left over.

A leading Boston poultry wholesaler, who refused to deal in anything except legal operations has found his normal turnover of 450,000 to 500,000 pounds a week reduced to almost nothing.

And, with more poultry than ever reaching markets, it is no more than fair to assume illicit operators are sharing a profit of at least $100,000 weekly on the half-million pounds this wholesaler has lost.

OPA's record is not a proud one. "Black market" operators and ceiling violators have been brought to book, it is true.

Federal judges have thrown wide their courtrooms and invited the OPA to bring in the culprits, threatening to exact maximum penalties.

The OPA has filed countless criminal informations. Jail terms and fines have been imposed.

But such violators write off fines as part of the costs of their risky business and there is always someone to "take a fall" when jail doors swing wide.

Tomorrow the Boston American will explain how bungling bureaucracy failed so completely in fair distribution of supplies, thereby aiding to promote "black market" conditions.

HERE IS A LINE TYPICAL OF THE MANY FORMING IN FRONT OF MEAT SHOPS IN BOSTON

Tons of Meat Reported Here, but None Available for Housewives

What $1 Buys

The country is spending millions of dollars a month in OPA salaries to keep the cost of living down. Has it been kept down? The dollar today buys, according to the OFFICIAL index of Massachusetts, compiled by the Necessities of Life Division, only 80 cents of what it did in 1939. Other national cost-of-living indexes show this estimate to be extremely conservative and indicate a far greater decrease in the buying power of the dollar.

Boston Romance Revealed In Langford Death Inquiry

Three cities were linked today in investigation of the nine-day-old mystery murder of Albert Langford, wealthy textile executive in his New York apartment, when tall, flaxen-haired Beatrice Coleman, who admitted arranging Langford's marriage, disclosed in a Hollywood interview that she was the wife of a Boston man.

The Hollywood blonde, also known as the Baroness de Chaney, said she was married to John D. Coleman of Boston, but that he "left me after we came out here 2½ years ago."

Redwing

Mrs. Coleman was named by Robert Redwing, a Cherokee Indian, as the other promoter of a courtship between Langford and his wealthy widow, Mrs. Marion Grimes Langford, 70. Redwing told New York police that he and Mrs. Coleman had been "promised $25,000 but never received it," for arranging the Langford marriage.

In a Hollywood interview, Mrs. Coleman told her story of her friendship with the Langfords to the Los Angeles Evening Herald and Express. She said:

That she was never promised any money for arranging the courtship, that she "can't understand why he (Redwing) said those things."

She added that the story of a courtship fee was "a little joke between Mr. Langford and me."

But Mrs. Coleman told the Herald and Express that she received a "lovely diamond bracelet" and a 40-carat star sapphire ring from Langford before his marriage, which she later returned to him.

"Langford wanted to back me in a business venture after his marriage, but that was never promised before his marriage, and I never took him up on it," Mrs. Coleman said.

She said that Mrs. Langford was "very jealous of me" and forced Langford to break off his association with her.

"He called me on the phone one night and said, 'I can't see you any more,'" the Herald and Express quoted her.

Acute Fruit, Vegetable Famine Near

A critical shortage of fruits and vegetables loomed today in this area due to a drastic decrease in carload arrivals from the South.

Since June 1 there has been a steady decline resulting in severe shortages being already felt in local stores in such items as oranges, potatoes, onions, grapefruit and strawberries.

But wholesalers are warning that shortages in other vegetables and fruits will hit the stores in from two to four days unless action is taken to get produce here from the South.

William F. Quinlan, president of the Market Terminal, says the Terminal now looks like an empty dance hall, so negligible are the daily arrivals. Wholesalers and jobbers are feeling the pinch and soon will be unable to serve the thousands of stores.

Growers in the South have stopped sending their produce here because there are no ceilings at the source and they can get higher prices there than they can by shipping here.

Yesterday only 31 car loads of fruits and vegetables arrived in Boston. Illustrating the decline is the fact that Tuesday is usually a big arrival day. For instance, 13 car loads arrived last Tuesday, when the decline was just beginning, but 53 car loads arrived the Tuesday before that, 66 on the previous Tuesday and 97 the week previous, when shipping to this area was normal.

Because of the lack of ceilings on farmers the same situation is developing in vegetables which has already taken place in poultry. Unauthorized dealers are combing the southern farms and buying the stuff at high prices while legitimate wholesalers and jobbers who must stick to the ceilings established for them can not compete.

Connie Bennett Divorces 4th Husband for Cruelty

LOS ANGELES, June 13 (AP)—Actress Connie Bennett today divorced her fourth husband, Actor Gilbert Roland, after she testified he was cruel to her, insulted their friends and refused to join in her social life.

Miss Bennett told Superior Judge Joseph W. Vickers she had been married twice and had lived here 11 years. He questioned the latter statement, pointing out she had obtained a Reno divorce in 1940 and must have established a Nevada residence then.

The Reno divorce was from the Marquise de la Falaise de la Coudraye, who was her third husband—and the third husband of actress Gloria Swanson. Previously Miss Bennett was married to Chester Moorehead and to the late Philip Plant.

Miss Bennett testified Roland was "insanely jealous." "It was impossible for me to carry on my work," she said. She declared he never supported her or contributed to the support of their two young daughters, Linda Ann and Christina Gly Roland.

On one occasion in May, 1944, when she had friends in, Roland declared they were all idiots, Miss Bennett testified, and left the house. Another time he got into an argument with their host's mother, she said, "and said he had no respect for any of us."

Miss Bennett declared she was so nervous and upset she was under a doctor's care and had lost weight.

CONSTANCE BENNETT

"Losing weight doesn't concern you, does it?" Judge Vickers asked.

"Oh, yes," Miss Bennett replied, and burst into tears.

Judge Vickers granted Miss Bennett the custody of the children and a settlement which gave Miss Bennett more than half their property of an undetermined amount.

Appointment of Dever Is Blocked by Council

Gov. Tobin's attempt to place Joseph P. Dever of Newton, ousted Boston transit commission chairman, on the state payroll was upset today when the executive council tabled Dever's appointment as associate public works commissioner.

The council's refusal to confirm Dever delayed action at least one week.

Quick approval was given by the council to Tobin's appointment of Boston Public Works Commr. William T. Morrissey as chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission.

Two Greater Boston men and a Chicopee woman were appointed to the Civil Service commission by Gov. Tobin and their names submitted to the council for confirmation.

James E. O'Brien, Brookline, Charles E. Campbell, Beverly and Lucy Wisniowski, a Chicopee alderman, were named to succeed the late Joseph J. Donahue, Herbert Ehrmann and Mary L. Barrows.

The Governor also appointed Francis X. Cotter, past department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, as veterans' aid and pensions commissioner at an annual salary of $5500. He succeeds W. Rea Long, whose term expired.

Other appointments:

William H. Emerson of Malden, director of Collateral Loan Co., replacing Louis Curtis; Francis J. Carreiro of Somerset, member of the Industrial Accident Board, succeeding Cyrus C. Rounseville, and J. Harry McGinn of Framingham, reappointed associate medical examiner in the Eighth Middlesex District.

Changes Suit To Give Name to Child Not His

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13 (AP) Lt. Clyde Monaghan asks his annulment suit be changed to divorce proceedings so his wife's child—which he insists is not his own—might bear his name.

The 30-year-old Waterloo, Ia., Naval flier told Superior Judge Lile T. Jacks yesterday that although he married the socially prominent Nancy Hillberg of Washington, D. C., only under threat of courtmartial, he was prepared to contribute to the support of her 11-months-old child, Rodney.

Monaghan originally filed annulment proceedings, stating he had been forced into a wedding with the Washington girl in Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 16, 1943, by his commanding officer and the commander's wife.

He said Miss Hillberg, a guest at the commander's home, had accused Monaghan of being the father of her unborn child.

Judge Jacks then explained California law assumed the husband to be the father of a child born in wedlock unless proven otherwise. He gave the flier and his attorney, Henry Jacobsen, several hours to study the matter.

On their return with an offer to change their suit to divorce proceedings Mrs. Hillberg's lawyer, Walter Duane, advised the court she would file a cross-complaint for divorce. To permit this action, Judge Jacks ordered the case continued to Aug. 20.

Stars in Hub Clash

Fontaine and Wyman—1 Umbrella

BOSTON COMMON, May 13 (delayed)—This front, which has seen no significant fighting since Gen. Gage gave his Redcoats the now historic order, "Lam, lads, the jig is up," was restored to status as a battlefield today when Joan Fontaine and Jane Wyman stood under a pounding rainstorm and swapped steely glances.

The movie stars' arena was the "bondstand," where they had appeared in behalf of the current loan drive. It was raining so hard Jimmy Durante couldn't have seen his nose before his face. Mayor Kerrigan's raincoat glistened under the downpour.

A gallant Army officer offered Miss Wyman an umbrella. She thanked him prettily and held it over her own winsome little head. Miss Fontaine, whose own charming noggin was being splashed by the downpour, looked questioningly at Miss Wyman and let her eyes linger pointedly a moment on the umbrella.

Mayor Kerrigan cleared his throat. Somebody on the stand who apparently knew the makings of a spat when he saw them tried to avert the awful possibility of making a quip about the weather. It was futile.

Miss Wyman perhaps did not get the gist of Miss Fontaine's meaningful pantomime, for she threw the crowd a nice smile while continuing to cozy herself under the umbrella.

Whereupon Miss Fontaine spoke sharply to Miss Wyman. Mayor Kerrigan swung into action like a career diplomat. He took off his raincoat and draped it over Miss Fontaine's shoulders.

Miss Fontaine protested. It was too much. It was an imposition. She would not rob the mayor of his raincoat. The mayor could not prevail upon her. He sighed and donned it again.

Miss Wyman moved center stage and held the umbrella over Miss Fontaine and herself. Miss Fontaine was called to the microphone. Miss Wyman followed and was about to protect her sister star with the bumbleshoot when Miss Fontaine gently but firmly nudged her away, spoke a few apparently well chosen words and turned to the audience with a smile that would have made a black leopard sit up for a piece of sole leather.

Miss Wyman melted back. Some said her lips moved. Some said they didn't move, but they heard her say something. They said it didn't sound like, "Yes, dear," or anything like that.

The officer who had unwittingly caused it all was reported to have gone hippety-skippety over the Common long before this, having drawn upon his knowledge of strategic retreats for as quick a scram as ever was noted locally.

The Battle of the Umbrella was over. The question now is whether it will settle down to being a nice long feud.

Kerrigan Doesn't Recall Common Clash

NEW YORK, June 13—Mayor Kerrigan of Boston, here for a brief stopover on his way home from Washington, said he had found Joan Fontaine and Jane Wyman to be "lovely ladies."

"And a credit to their profession," the mayor added gallantly. "I really don't recall any misunderstanding of any kind between these delightful visitors."

Suing Wife Tells of Italian PW Guests

Mrs. Aida V. DiNardo, 31, North Beacon st., Brighton, admitted in probate court today 10 Italian prisoners had been guests at her brother's home, but she denied she had fallen in love with one and had made frequent trips to Ft. Andrews to see him.

She is seeking a divorce from Peter DiNardo, 32-year-old war plant worker and father of their two children, Marta, 9, and Peter, 4. DiNardo is contesting the suit before Judge Mahoney.

Mrs. DiNardo's admission about her prisoner-guests came during cross-questioning by her husband's attorney, John J. Sulivan, who asked:

"Do you know a Libero Marsili?"

"Yes," she answered, "he is an Italian prisoner of war at Ft. Andrews."

"Do you plan to marry him?" Sullivan asked.

"No," said Mrs. DiNardo, "I merely met him at my brother's home in Everett last September. He came there with other Italian prisoners."

"Isn't it a fact," inquired Sullivan, "that every Sunday since September you have gone to Ft Andrews to see him?"

"No," denied Mrs. DiNardo, "I went to see him and all the other prisoners. I never went alone. I went with my mother, sister, or children."

Marsili came from the same town in the "old country" as she did, she testified. She said when the Italian prisoners were entertained at her brother's house they arrived in the custody of only one guard.

"What was his name?" asked Sullivan.

"Murphy," she said.

Mrs. DiNardo charged her husband with cruel and abusive treatment. This, she asserted included being thrown out of bed on one occasion and getting a black eye on another.

Cult Member Wins Fight to Quit Army

Successful in his court fight to be returned to civil life, Carl M. Flannagan, 24, Knoxville, Tenn., was released from the Army at Camp Edwards today in compliance with an order issued by Federal Judge Ford.

Flannagan, inducted Oct. 5, 1942, refused to take the induction oath. He claimed he was a member of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Judge Ford said Flannagan's release restored him to the jurisdiction of his draft board and made him subject to criminal prosecution by civil authorities.

Walda's Hubby Back, Puzzled

"I don't know if the marriage has been annulled," William Lawless, 28, Cambridge art student who eloped with Walda Winchell, 18, daughter of Walter Winchell, said today upon his return to the Elm st., Cambridge, home of his parents.

He said he saw Walda yesterday but declined to say where she was. He said the only information he had about the annulment he read in newspapers.

Lawless said he intended to enter Vesper George Art School next month to take a refresher course in stage secenery designing.

Lawless and Miss Winchell were married secretly June 5 at West New York, N. J. The bride's father announced June 8 his daughter would seek an annulment.

Seeks $757,547 For Lloyd Baby

In just a year to a day since her aviator-husband was killed, Mrs. Nancy T. Lloyd, of Hyannisport, today sought payment of $757,547 to her 14-monts-old daughter, Tangley Campbell Lloyd, from the estate of the youngster's grandfather, the late Demarest Lloyd, Sr., long-time foe to Irish freedom.

Hearing on a petition seeking payment of the baby's share opened before Judge Frederick J. Dillon in Suffolk Probate Court with Edward C. McClennen, Boston attorney and a trustee of the estate, protesting that the court did not have jurisdiction.

The will was probated in Washington after the death of Lloyd, Sr., leaving a fourth share to Demarest Lloyd, Jr.

Under terms of the will, shares would have accrued to the young aviator on his 25th, 35th and 45th birthdays, but he was killed before he even reached 25.

Cantor Pledges Best for Show

"Tell Boston folks I'm shooting for the outstanding stage performance of my career. Me and my gang are all primed for the Garden show and promise a topper."

This was the message Eddie Cantor sent today to sponsors of the all-star show at Boston Garden, Sunday evening, June 24, at which he'll be master of ceremonies.

This gala headline performance of the nation's top music and comedy stars has been arranged by the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser as a salute to the epic film story of Philippine guerrillas, "Back to Bataan." Proceeds from the show will go to erect a badly-needed civic center for servicemen's wives and mothers in downtown Boston.

Tickets are now on sale daily at Boston Garden, from 10 a. m. to 8 p. m. at popular prices, $1.20, $2.40 and $3.60 including tax. But get your tickets early to be assured of best seats—or any seats for that matter, because large as the Garden is, it will accommodate only so many.

When the lineup is completed it will be top-drawer quality. To start the list off, Cantor is bringing his entire radio show, including Leonard Sues, one of the nation's stellar trumpeters; Nora Martin and Bea Walker, song stylists, and Fred Martel, vocalist.

Then there will be the one and only Benny Goodman, "King of Swing," headlining that week at the RKO-Boston theater. He'll take his entire company into the "Salute" bill at Boston Garden. And Romo Vincent, Broadway's popular comedian and star of the new hit show, "Marinka," will take part, as will Jean Merrill, Ted Cole and the Gallagher Sisters, all singing notables from the Yankee Network; picked dancing beauties in lavish production numbers of the Latin quarter and Club Mayfair, and a large delegation of Hollywood stars who are making the trip east for the gala benefit performance.

Also present will be Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, Philippines commissioner to the U. S., and a member of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff, as well as officers and men from the New England area who were freed from Cabanatuan prison by American Rangers and Filipino guerillas, an historic episode thrillingly and faithfully reenacted in RKO's "Back to Bataan," which has its world premiere June 25 at the Keith Memorial theater.

Among these prisoners snatched from the Jap prison camp, and who will attend the show, are Maj. John J. Dugan, S. J., now post chaplain at Cushing General Hospital, Framingham; Maj. Vaughan A. Shaw of Fort Devens; Capt. John W. Temple of Pittsfield.

Bridges Asks Senate Probe Of Elliott Loan

WASHINGTON, June 13 (INS)—Sen. Bridges (R.) of New Hampshire today requested the Senate learn the facts regarding published reports that a $200,000 loan to Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President, had been settled for $4000.

In a Senate speech he said:

"This is not a thing which one can pass by with the winking of an eye or the lifting of an eyebrow."

Carruthers Ewing, general counsel for John Hartford, president of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., said the loan had been settled by Jesse Jones, former federal loan administrator, on behalf of Roosevelt.

Bridges told the Senate "it is a moral issue and it also concerns the taxpayers of the country because a loss on a loan is deductible from taxable income in computation of income taxes."

"When the son of a President is charged with something of this kind, Congress cannot let it pass or close its eyes to the matter," he said. "It should ascertain whether it is true or not."

"The truth should be brought out, and if true it should be condemned and action taken."

Bridges suggested the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee or the commerce committee should make a thorough investigation of the published reports of the loan.

"If it is untrue," he said, "Elliott Roosevelt's name should be cleared."

Elliott to Talk When He Gets Ready

NEW YORK, June 13 (INS)—Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt told reporters today he would have nothing to say about his now famous $200,000 loan until he got good and ready to say it, according to a storp printed in the New York Journal-American.

The son of the late president, the newspaper stated, was interviewed as he dined at the Park Lane hotel with Frank Hummert, head of Hummert Radio Features, and Mrs. Hummert.

They are Anthony F. Cataldo, James Cataldo and Theodore Damicki.

Indict Former Bushnell Aide In Girl Case

NEW BEDFORD, June 13—Former Asst. Atty. Gen. Ralph V. Rogers of Cambridge, now in the Army, was indicted by the Bristol grand jury today, charged with abduction, paternity of an illegitimate child born in April and neglect of the child.

The indictment was returned on behalf of a 23-year-old Taunton girl whose name was not disclosed.

Dist. Atty. Frank E. Smith said state police were flying to Camp Robinson, Ark., to bring Rogers back.

It was reported the abduction count charged Rogers with enticing the young woman to New York for immoral purposes.

Before he entered the Army, Rogers lived in Farrar st., Cambridge, with his wife and child.

During Atty.-Gen. Bushnell's regime, Rogers took charge of the Bristol County investigation which was capped by the resignation of Dist. Atty. William C. Crossley. During that probe he made Taunton his headquarters.

Rogers resigned from Bushnell's staff in September, 1944, following in the footsteps of another aide, Frank G. Volpe. The Cambridge attorney had been appointed Sept. 30, 1943.

$49,500 Awards Against B. & M.

A Woburn laborer and a Medford widow today were awarded $30,500 and $19,000 respectively in suits against the Boston & Maine railroad in Middlesex Superior Civil Court.

Joseph P. Kelley, 52, of Fowle st., Woburn, was given a jury award of $30,500 for injuries suffered May 24, 1943 when his leg was crushed while loading gravel on cars at a siding in Winchester. He has been under hospital treatment ever since.

In the second suit, a jury gave $19,000 to Mrs. Anna J. Murphy of Medford, widow of Mark J. Murphy.

Murphy, an engineer, vanished Dec. 1, 1942 after leaving an engine in the North Station yards to get his supper. His body was pulled from the Charles river May 13, 1943. It was contended the route he took was unguarded and unprotected.

Yank and Bride Honeymoon in Hitler Eagle Nest

THE EAGLE'S NEST, Kehlstein Mountain, Bavaria, June 13 (INS)—An Army officer from Chicago, Lt. David Palowsky, and a Red Cross worker from Philadelphia, Betty Ann Goit, began a unique honeymoon today at the Eagle's Nest, Hitler's fortified hideaway.

The romance of Lt. Palowsky and his bride began as the British liner Queen Mary sailed past the Statue of Liberty in New York last October. It was climaxed in a wedding in Austria.

They spent today above the clouds at Hitler's Eagle's Nest as guests of the U. S. air-borne division, of which Lt. Palowsky, University of Illinois graduate and a veteran of Bastogne, is a member.

Lt. Col. Gaines J. Hatch of Los Angeles gave the bride away. Maids of honor included Isabelle Messenger of Boston, Red Cross worker.

In-Law Aids Her Divorce Plea

Her husband wouldn't wrestle unless he was paid well for it, but he gave her a black eye for nothing, Mrs. Pauline V. MacNeal of Davison st., Hyde Park, testified in Suffolk probate court today.

Judge John V. Mahoney gave her a divorce from Edward M. MacNeal, a former professional wrestler, who did not contest.

Mrs. MacNeal, who charged cruel and abusive treatment, was backed up by her mate's mother, Mrs. Catherine Whitney.

Two years after the couple married in 1932, the wrestler began staying out late nights and making merry, the court was told. His wife said she protested whereupon her wrestler blacked her eye.

"Then he met another woman and told me he liked her better because she was stronger," said Mrs. MacNeal.

Mrs. Whitney said her son "had quite a few affairs," and added, "once he brought home another girl and I had to put her out but all he said was, 'everyone has to live his own life.'"

MacNeal will pay Mrs. MacNeal $30 a week by agreement until the divorce becomes absolute.

DRESSES $1 for a mere

A good dress for the trifling sum of a dollar, you ask? Yes, indeed, we reply—not one or two or a mere handful, but hundreds and hundreds. If you were here recently, you saw them, and if you were lucky you probably got one. They did a "Whirlaway" selling right off the racks. How do we get dresses at $1 in this day and age . . . good fashionable, wearable dresses for a mere greenback? Just like we get our hundreds of other choice bargains in purchases of odd lots, retail store stocks, discontinued lines and seconds. Folks frequently tell us they can do more with their dollars in Filene's Basement—and when you sell about 12,000,000 bargains annually, you are pretty apt to find a diversified variety — not infrequently good dresses at $1, good shirts, good shoes, good hats, and so on! We cite these dresses at $1 because they emphasize how original LOW prices beat our famous automatic plan, and there will be no need of future markdowns. Since these $1 dresses are sold at the first price, there will be none to be reduced after 12 selling days (June 14th) when a ¼ reduction would make the price 75c—after six more days (June 21st) a second reduction of ⅓ would make the price 50c—and after 24 selling days (June 28th) a third reduction of ¾ would make the price 25c. It emphasizes how little, if anything, is ever left to be given away at the end of 30 selling days. Hence with a 30 day sentence in view, our automatic plan not only makes bargains in the first place, but so irresistibly LOW folks have learned they'll miss out if they don't buy immediately. That's why what you see here today, is gone tomorrow—for the store that frequently sells hundreds of suits in an hour, thousands of shirts in a day, hundreds of blouses in a few hours, and so on—must sell bargains—and that's Filene's Basement, the store that flourishes on keeping prices LOW.

Reds Seen Spiking Jap War

By DAVID SENTNER
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, June 13—The re-establishment of the Communist party as a militant revolutionary force with the West Coast as its citadel foreshadows Red sabotage of the American war effort in the event Russia decides not to fight in the Pacific, Rep. J. Parnell Thomas (R.) of New Jersey warned today.

The Communist influence in government agencies, as evidenced by the recent revelation that secret information in the State Department was being fed to Red writers, emphasizes the sinister potential of the new subversive movement, Thomas added.

"News that the Communist party is transferring its center of operations to Hollywood comes as no surprise to me," asserted the New Jersey Congressman, former member of the Dies Committee and ranking minority member of the standing House Committee on Un-American Activities.

"This change of venue is not because there are more Communists in Hollywood than in New York City, but because the Communists want to stand ready to knife our military operations against Japan in the back should Soviet Russia not come into that war.

"If Russia should not come into the Pacific war, the Communists in the United States will do everything possible to scuttle the ship just as they were doing during Stalin's pact with Hitler before Germany attacked the Soviet Union.

The Communists have no love for America and as soon as they get the green light from Moscow, they will jeopardize every military and naval move we make.

"I am fearful we will see many Red-fomented strikes in our war plants, particularly on the Pacific coast."

Thomas expressed additional alarm over the new Red party line announced by Communist leaders before a Hollywood meeting in the film capital which included strengthening ties with the White House, indoctrinating members of the armed services and campaigning for postwar lend-lease for the Soviet Union.

"The American people should not discount this announced Red program," he said. "Too many of them have been commissioned as officers in the American Army. I know of one who was sent to officer candidate school by special order of the Secretary of War.

"Further proof of the inroads of the Communists into government agencies is supplied by the recent disclosure by the FBI that they were able to get important secrets o[illegible] of the State Department."

In order to offset the new Communist tactics, Thomas suggested that the House Committee on Un-American Activities keep a staff of investigators working on the West Coast at all times.

50 Courts-Martial Called 'Incredible'

WASHINGTON, June 13 (INS)—Rep. Barry (D.) of New York, who has asked for a special congressional committee to review Army and Navy court-martial sentences, today assailed as "incredible" cases which had been brought to his attention.

In a letter to Rep. May (D.) of Kentucky, chairman of the House military affairs committee, Barry requested leave to appear before the group to present some 50 cases.

One case was that of Kalen Parlefsky of Brooklyn who was given a life sentence for going AWOL when he failed to get a furlough during his mother's illness.

Parlefsky, according to his mother's letter, enlisted before war was declared and served 27 months in Iceland. While there, his younger sister and brother died of meningitis and the Red Cross tried to bring him back, but failed.

He was sent to England, where he learned his mother had undergone a serious operation, and again the Red Cross tried to bring him home, but did not succeed.

The letter said:

"I received word from my son that he couldn't stand it any longer."

Barry also presented the case of Robert McGrath, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who earned seven combat stars in the Mediterranean and European theaters.

McGrath went AWOL for a few days in France and was picked up, he claims, on his way back to his outfit. He was given a dishonorable discharge and a sentence of 20 years' imprisonment.

John W. Scott of Louisiana was tried for a statutory offence against an Arab woman in 1943 and given a death sentence which was later changed to life imprisonment.

Scott claims he was arrested with two other soldiers because they were the only ones signed out from camp that day. A doctor at the trial testified the woman was untouched, and she testified she had never seen Scott before.

He asserted he was told by his commanding officer the trial was held only to pacify the natives, and he would be out of jail in a few months.

A fourth case was that of Joseph Washington of New York city, who was sentenced to 20 years for failing to answer a drill call at Camp Hood, Tex.

Trample Grave Of Mussolini

CHIASSO, Swiss-Italian border, June 13 (INS)—Citizens of Milan continued to vent their hatred for Mussolini today even though the slain Fascist leader lay in a pauper's grave.

Although the burial place is in a section of the Milan paupers cemetery usually reserved for the Germans and which was kept secret at first, its whereabouts finally leaked out.

Each day now crowds of the Milanese make pilgrimages to the grave to trample it and heap insults on the Duce's memory.

Path Cleared For Big Powers' Victory on Veto

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13 (AP) Defeat of an Australian amendment cleared the way today for approval in a United Nations conference committee of the Big Five demand for total veto control of proposed machinery for world security.

The amendment, which would have removed the veto from steps to settle international disputes peacefully and limited it to use of force, was voted down 20 to 10, 15 nations abstained and five were absent.

Simultaneously a new issue appeared to be gaining headway. The small nations were beginning to rally behind a proposal that they should be promised another crack at the veto about 10 years hence.

Truman Wants OWI Budget Restored

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP) —President Truman expressed the hope today that Congress would restore the entire budget estimate for the Office of War Information, which the House has sharply slashed.

He told his press conference that in his judgement OWI is doing a job that needs to be done in the interest of the United States in fighting a war far from over.

Poles, Big 3 Envoys To Meet in Moscow

LONDON, June 13 (AP)—Polish and Big Three representatives will discuss reorganization of the Polish provisional government in Moscow Friday, it was announced today.

A British Foreign Office communique said "a very serious deadlock has been broken," but cautioned it is contrary to all our experience to say that it is going to be clear sailing from now on."

A simultaneous announcement in London, Washington and Moscow said reorganization of the Warsaw regime "provided for in the Crimea agreement on Poland" would be discussed.

Members of the Polish government in exile in London, still recognized by Britain and the United States, were conspicuously absent from the list of Poles who will take part in the discussion.

Responsible quarters here said Juhan Zakowski, one of three London Poles invited to the conference, had decided to turn down the bid on the ground he has never been connected with politics.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—My husband is a M-Sgt. and draws a rental allowance of $37.50 for me and I receive an allotment check each month of $125. Couldn't he apply for the Family Allowance now? I've read that men in that grade may have it if they wish. T. W., Concord, N. H.

A—If you have children the soldier would benefit financially by cancelling his rental allowance and drawing Family Allowance. He may not draw both, and he has the choice of which he wishes to have in effect. If you have no children, drawing rental allowance is the better financial arrangement.

Q—Does a soldier's pay stop when he is in the hospital? Y. M., Manchester.

A—No, it does not, unless his illness or injury is the result of his own misconduct.

Q—I have a baby by a soldier who is married to someone else and he has two children by his marriage. He is willing that my baby should have the Family Allowance if it doesn't make any difference in the amount paid to his wife. Will it? D. E., Burlington.

A—Yes, it will. His wife now receives $100 Family Allowance for herself and the two children. If your child is added, the amount of Family Allowance payable for the soldier's three children is $70. When the children live apart from each other the amount is divided evenly among them—$23.33. His wife would then receive $96.67 instead of the $100.

Q—I have been receiving Family Allowance from my husband for a year and a half. I obtained a divorce from him in April but did not claim any support. Am I entitled to the Family Allowance for six months until the divorce is final? B. J., Roxbury.

A—No, you are not. Family Allowance should be discontinued at the end of the month in which the decree nisi is awarded. The last check to which you were entitled is the one issued in May. If you have children, they are entitled to receive payment regardless of the divorce. A certified copy of the divorce decree should be filed with the Office of Dependency Benefits, Newark, N. J., giving the soldier's full name and Army serial number.

SLAVERY OR FREEDOM

"The temporary victory of SOCIALISM in one country alone is possible, but its lasting victory in one country alone is impossible—that DEMANDS THE VICTORY OF THE REVOLUTION IN OTHER LANDS AS WELL."—Joseph Stalin in "Leninism."

PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL said something in his speech the other day that far transcends the issues of the English situation.

It has not only a direct application to the United States but is a crystal-clear universal clarification of the great issue of SLAVERY OR FREEDOM which is now rapidly defining itself between Soviet Russia and the democratic countries of the globe.

He said:

"I stand for the sovereign freedom of the individual within the laws which freely elected parliaments have freely passed. I stand for the rights of the ordinary man to say what he thinks of the government of the day, however powerful, and to turn them out neck and crop if he thinks he can better his temper or his home thereby and can persuade enough others to vote with him."

That could not be said in Red Square, Moscow, or in any country now under the heel of Russia without the speaker going to the firing squad or to Siberia.

THAT COMMUNISM is coming to us here—if we do not soon wake up—in the Trojan horse of Socialism and that it will result in state-slavery for all Americans is indicated by these facts, which the public seldom recalls:

1. The U.S.S.R. (Russia) means union of Soviet SOCIALIST Republics.

2. The word Nazi means National Socialist and is a popular contraction of Hitler's National SOCIALIST Party.

Hitler was a Socialist. All the horrors perpetrated by his order were done by the Nazi SOCIALIST Party.

3. Nearly all the Fascists of Europe—Mussolini, Laval, Doriot, Quisling, for instance—were SOCIALISTS.

Socialism is a creep-word for Communism. And it is creeping on us here in the United States through the three historic ways of undermining our form of government without the busy, everyday public suspecting:

1—By sapping the virility of Congress by continuous delegations of power to bureaucrats—commissars.

2—By the extension inch by inch, under the leadership of such men as Senator Wagner—of "Cradle-to-Grave Security." It was the lure of "Cradle-to-Grave Security" that put Lenin, Stalin, Hitler and Mussolini in power.

3—By unlimited taxes. Particularly the right now unchallenged in our docile state of mind of taking ANY AMOUNT out of your weekly paycheck.

This involves the right to confiscate any part or all of your entire income to be spent by politicians on political schemes to perpetuate politicians in power. All these things are being done to us, and they constitute creeping Communism.

IT IS A PITY—it is, indeed, a DISGRACE—that no great leader has arisen in this country of the stature of Churchill to point out to us the menace of this creeping Communism (now called "Social Legislation") and that we have to turn to England for a redefining of what Anglo-American individualism stands for as opposed to the strangling Totalitarian state!

MRS. JOHN C. MORGAN of Traverse City, Mich., has just celebrated 68 years of married life with her second husband. If that isn't the world's record for length of life with a second husband, what is? The second husband, John C. Morgan, may be the holder of another record. He is still the active head of a food products company he established in 1877. Can you name another man who for 68 consecutive years has been the active head of a firm he established?

PLEASE NOTE: Note it stated there has been originated a liquid that when used as a substitute for women's stockings "looks more like stockings than stockings actually do." That is a puzzling statement. Trying to figure it out might give a fellow a headache. How could something look more like a stocking than a stocking does? That's like saying you know a girl who looks more like Betty Grable than Betty Grable does herself.

SIDELIGHTS: A young oldtimer is a fellow who remembers the words and music of the ditty "Yes, We Have No Bananas." Speaking of bananas, it is said in East Africa they grow a type of banana that is two feet long and thick as a man's arm. From these they make, among other things, banana brandy. A shot of banana brandy must be quite potent . . . A Bostonian says she went to a meeting of mothers. Object of the meeting was a discussion of methods of bringing up children. Instead of talking about children, the mothers spent the entire meeting talking about their husbands.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Did the Nazis destroy Leonardo da Vinci's painting, "Mona Lisa"? A—This painting is in possession of the French and will be returned to the Louvre. Q—Have you another reader named Virgilious? A—No. However, I have one named Theophilus! Q—What is the origin of the term, "A tin-horn gambler"? A—You have me there. I don't know the origin of the term "piker," either. Q—What games would be good exercise for a man over 70? A—Croquet, soft ball baseball, putting green golf, tennis or horseshoe pitching. Q—So you are an expert on percentage, mathematics, etc.? No. 1 horse is even money. No. 2 is 2-to-1. No. 3 is 10-to-1. How much would I have to wager on each of these horses to win $5, no matter which won the race? A—Can't recall claiming to be an expert on mathematics. However, if you placed $33 on No. 1, $22 on No. 2 and $6 on No. 3, you would win $5 no matter which horse won.

RACING BLOOD: Some years ago Fred Archer, the great British jockey, was coasting down the backstretch of the Midlands, England, track aboard a favorite. He was four lengths ahead. As the field passed a mounted policeman, the officer's horse, showing great interest, jumped over the rail and took after the racehorses. The policeman tried vainly to stop his excited horse and then decided to let him run. Coming into the stretch the policeman's horse and the favorite were head and head. The crowd went wild. Nearing home, the police horse stuck his head in front. Then Archer went to the whip and brought the favorite over the line a nose in front. However, the police horse was not dismayed by his defeat but, pretty pleased with himself, came back to the judges' stand with his head high. The crowd cheered him for ten minutes. He was a former race horse which had evidently been retired from the turf too soon.

WASHINGTON SCENE

By GEORGE DIXON

(Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc. Reproduction Prohibited.)

WASHINGTON, June 13—This sounds like sheer perverseness to me, but maybe it's some kind of a game. Anyway, this is what I read in the Congressional Record:

Francis Biddle

"Mr. Cannon of Missouri: Mr. Chairman, I move that the committee do not rise.

"The motion was agreed to.

"Accordingly the committee rose—."

★ ★ ★

PROBABLY for old time's sake, a number of journalists went down to the Justice Department for what was probably Atty.-Gen. Francis Biddle's last press conference. It seems Mr. Biddle is departing, having handed in his resignation.

The newspapermen, eagle-eyed fellows all, noted that Mr. Biddle had done considerable office decoration since they were there last. For some reason, which we can only guess at, he choose his last days in office to hang up portraits of his predecessors.

The portraits weren't there before. But now the place is covered with pictures of ex-attorneys-general!

★ ★ ★

NOTE TO COPY DESK: Ha! Ya didn't think I knew, didja? Thought I'd write attorney-generals, didn't ya?

The other day I came out flatly against the whippoorwill, denouncing the creature as a sleep-destroying bore. I have just had a letter of commiseration from Mrs. Dorothy M. Wortley of Hampton House, New York city, as follows:

"Dear Mr. Dixon—Though I doubt your column is predicated on arousing pity, your plea about the whippoorwill roused just that. As a one-tune sufferer from the nightly visitations of one of them in Rhode Island last year, I pass on my method of robbing a neighborhood of whippoorwills.

"(1) Buy a good, strong flashlight (don't ask me where).

"(2) When the nocturnal visitor arrives (which is usually just as you have decided maybe he won't), locate the exact tree, bush or whatever he perches on, with your flashlight.

"(3) Keep it trained on him, enjoying his injured protest."

(Whu—Whu—Wee—silence—A few more spluttered sounds and eventually long silence.)

"Seriously, you have my deepest sympathy in your plight and every wish that my Rhode Island scheme applies to other varities of that pesky bird."

MR. HARVEY JACOBS, prominent Washington lawyer, has a 25-acre farm in Maryland. Since food supplies got scarce, various members of the National Press Club have been pestering him to bring them chickens and things.

Among the most importunate were Mr. Charles Michie and Mr. Frank McAfee. The latter, who owns a deep freeze, graciously informed Mr. Jacobs he would accept all the chickens the latter could supply.

This got Mr. Jacobs a trifle irked, so a couple of days later he brought a package into the bar and told Mr. McAfee, in front of a large gathering, that he had brought him his poultry.

McAfee unwrapped the package—and out tumbled a huge horned owl!

★ ★ ★

IT DOESN'T TAKE much to make us laugh around the club these days so naturally we all howled, Mr. Jacobs the loudest.

Mr. McAfee finally departed with his owl, but a couple of days later came in grinning like all get-out. This is what happened:

He took the owl to the National Museum to consult a taxidermist. An official looked at the defunct bird and promptly went into ecstasies.

"Why!" he explained, "this is a great horned owl. It's practically extinct in America! And this is one of the finest specimens I have ever seen. It's far superior to the one we have here!"

The upshot was that the museum offered Mr. McAfee $150 for the owl, which has a 52-inch wing spread. But Mr. McAfee said he is thinking of being public spirited and donating it.

"In other words," he said, "I will give the museum the bird. And I will also do as much for Mr. Jacobs!"

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 13—Hey! Damon Runyon! You are going to live on the screen just like all those "guys" and "dolls" you write about. I, for one, think you are just as colorful a character as any Broadway figure you ever put on paper and I can just see the background of Lindy's, Ruben's and the show spots and the race tracks and the newspaper offices that would go into your story.

So can your old friend, Leonard Spigelgass, who is now Lt. Col. Spigelgass—the "guy" who has the idea of writing the story on you.

Joan Fontaine

Spigelgass, now in Washington, after serving on two war fronts, has wired Agent Nat Goldstone that he has the story already whipped into shape and that it has everything in it that makes for good entertainment as well as an earthquake.

* * *

IF JOAN FONTAINE weren't such a good actress she would make a wonderful columnist. Every time Joan gets back from the East I like to get together with her, for she is witty, amusing and breezy about the New York happenings, without being catty or malicious. (Maybe she wouldn't make such a good columnist after all ! ! !) I talked with Joan and asked her about the report that she was to do "All Brides Are Beautiful," Ann Parish's novel, and "All Kneeling" for RKO. "We've talked about it," she said, "and I want to get permission from David Selznick." If she does, "All Brides Are Beautiful" will be done first with William Pereira at the production helm and William Prince in the hero role. She still wants to do "Ballad and the Source" for Walter Wanger.

* * *

DONNA REED is a lady who changes her mind very often. Now she has decided again to be married to Tony Owen, Friday at 4:30, at the Community First Presbyterian Church. Dr. William Everett Roberts will officiate. She and her bridegroom will then board the Super-Chief and go on to Chicago to visit his family. He will attend to some business in the East and after a month's honeymoon, they will return. The wedding dinner will be served aboard the Super-Chief with the Keenan Wynns, Van Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Randy Scott, the Ralph Plums, Minna Wallace, and Walter Van Pelt as their guests. So unless Donna decides again, the wedding is too rushed, she will be married Friday.

WHILE ALL the studios have been busy discussing making the life of Roosevelt, John Wexley is already doing a documentary film for the OWI. He said it is in connection with the mobilization of Hollywood writers, and that it is in no way a tribute, but merely a life story of F. D. R. From the time he started in the New York Senate, his work in the Navy during the First World War, up through his governorship and the Presidency. "I am trying to show," said Mr. Wexley, "that his work still goes on." Wexley, who wrote "The Last Mile," is an able writer and was chosen for this particular job by the OWI.

* * *

YOU WOULD GET a laugh if you knew who is the hero of the three satirical stories which George Jessel has just written. He sold them to Collier's and the hero is a director friend of his, who worked with a woman friend of Georgie's. It all sounds very complicated until you know the inside story. Georgie has taken the stories and combined them into a screen play called 'The Stars Are Here," casting himself as the talent scout in the film, a high comedy role. Georgie, by the way, is set at 20th. He has just been given a new long term deal.

THE ENTHUSIASM in H. M. Horkheimer's voice when he told me that Eva Gabor is to star in a play called "Drawing Room Piece," which he is putting on the stage very shortly, intrigued me. "It is another 'Voice of the Turtle,'—We'll be happy to make a million!" Well, you can't be shot for trying. Anyway, he says it is something off the beaten track. It will open here in July and then go on to San Francisco. Allan Shero, who wrote "Let's Marry," is the author. Eva is just back from seeing her sister, Mrs. Conrad Hilton who is in a sanatorium and who has been very, very ill.

* * *

THERE HAVE BEEN so many rumors that Martha Scott and Carleton Alsop are plotting a separation that I telephoned Carleton to ask him point blank if he and Martha had parted. "No," he said, "not as of five minutes ago when I talked to Martha in Boston, where she is playing in 'Soldier's Wife.'" He says she is dead tired and is taking a rest starting this week. "I am joining her in New York," he told me. "Marty," he said, "has been offered a picture by RKO but her doctor has ordered her to take at least two [illegible]."

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD [illegible] RED AT RANDOM: Jack L. Warner [illegible] Oscar D. Sir Lee Index told where he can [illegible] and she is taking [illegible] Thos. Clifton Webb told me at the Ralph Bunn dinner honoring the Oscar Hammersteins. Jean Arthur, who wore her hair in the quaintest pigtails atop her head, said that she leaves today with her mother for Maine. I met Dana Andrews' wife for the first time, at the Bunns, and she is a very pretty blonde—pretty enough to be in pictures. Speaking of beauty, Dorothy Blanchard, Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein's 17-year-old daughter is breathtaking. Darryl Zanuck, who came with Virginia, after the Patton-Doolittle celebration, was well pleased that 20th has her all signed.

THE LOUDEST LAUGHS over the Bernard Brothers' antics at Slapsy Maxie's, were from Betty Hutton, who really gave out with a chuckle. Doris Warner Le Roy is here, staying with her parents, the Harry Warners. Tonight something new is being offered at the Film City Playhouse—a parody version of "The Taming of the Shrew." The talent scouts will be out full force, because new players are being introduced and that's the way our boys get much of the movie talent; Greg McClure is out of the Army and will be here when his one and only picture, "The Great John L." is previewed next month. Buy bonds at your favorite motion picture theater. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Boston After Dark

THE BLACK MARKET in beef is raging so profitably that the racketeers have adopted a new short cut in getting their produce to market . . . Right here in Massachusetts, one outfit of sharpshooters is using small clearings in the woods as their "slaughter house" . . . The animals are taken—three or four at a time—into these forest glens.

★ ★ ★

THEY ARE THEN killed by shooting instead of by the approved method of slashing the animal's throat. (Not that, we suppose, it makes much difference to the steers) . . . Where the animal falls, at that spot is set up the "slaughter-house" . . . Skinning takes place at once, and the hides are thrown away—as a by-product not worth bothering about.

OF COURSE, the beef reaches the market without the government's stamp denoting that it has been cleared through an approved slaughter-house . . . But so much "unapproved" beef is being sold these days to a meat-greedy public that the killed-in-the-woods brand of beef is not exceptional in that respect.

PREDICTION: Lobster meat at $1 a pound (current price) will seem a bargain in August, when the luxury crustacean will sell at an all time high . . . Lobstermen explain high price of lobster meat by the fact that it requires six to seven pounds of live lobster to make one pound of meat.

★ ★ ★

THE D. OF J. investigation of the lobster industry, meantime, is progressing under the guidance of a Boston judge, especially appointed for the probe . . . So far, a Maine concern with an alleged interlocking directorate in three companies has come under scrutiny . . . But charges of price-fixing are not being sustained, we hear, by the investigators.

Held in Plot To Burn Garage

In what police describe as a plot to set fire to his own garage, Richard A. Hemstreet, 34, Blue Hill ave., Milton, pleaded not guilty in East Cambridge court today after probe of a fire at the R. A. H. Service Co's garage, First and Hurley sts., East Cambridge.

The scene is but four blocks from a $100,000 garage fire Monday.

Hemstreet was arrested at his Milton home by Insp. Sylvester Mead of the State fire marshal's office. He was charged with attempting to burn a building with intent to defraud the insurer.

Judge Walcott fixed bail at $2000 and set June 22 for hearing.

The alleged attempt to fire the garage was frustrated by Henry R. Rodwell, Hamlet st., Arlington, night superintendent of the nearby Lechmere Sq. garage.

Lawrence Mann, owner of the Mann Forwarding Co., of Cambridge, said today reports his company suffered loss in Monday's fire were erroneous. He said the Lewis Express Co. also escaped damage.

21 Pupils Fly As Bond Reward

As a reward for their aid to the Seventh War Loan campaign, 21 Greater Boston school pupils will be flown in an airliner over eastern Massachusetts today.

The hour's flight late this afternoon was arranged by the state war finance committee in co-operation with United Airlines. The flight-winning students, selected for their exceptional sales ability in the war loan drive, will be flown over their respective communities, up the North Shore to Gloucester, then out over Massachusetts Bay to Cape Cod and back to the East Boston airport.

Meanwhile, the war finance committee announced today that E-Bond sales in Massachusetts total $71,600,000, just 51.2 per cent of the State's quota of $140,000,000. Total individual sales reached $169,200,000 or 71.1 per cent of a $238,000,000 quota.

The Greater Boston E-Bond sales stood at $42,272,000, or 50.2 per cent of the $84,308,000 quota, while individual sales in this area are $116,936,000, or 77.5 per cent of a quota of $150,801,000.

Hingham Transport Ready for Service

HINGHAM, June 13 (INS)—The Navy announced today the USS Belet, a high-speed transport, will be placed in commission Thursday afternoon at the Bethlehem shipyard in Hingham.

The vessel was originally launched as a destroyer escort March 3, 1944, but was converted to a high-speed transport when the landing ship construction program was given priority.

THERE'S nothing like cute cotton to give us that cute feeling of summertime comfort. Here is a little model . . . interesting for fabric contrast and skirt treatment . . . styled in one-piece with youthful high-necked bodice in solid green chambray stitched to gray and white stripes. A dressmaker touch is added in mother-of-pearl buttons to this New York junior cotton.—R. M.

GI's Experts on Charm

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

SOMETIMES I THINK we women don't properly evaluate masculine approval of our looks and appearance . . . not until some GI's hand out an Oscar for "sheer loveliness" . . . and then we sit up and say to ourselves . . . "They do know what feminine loveliness really is" . . . and we take steps to get teeth into our routine.

To say that the recuperating veterans at the Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., knew their gratitude and feminine charm when they ceremoniously presented ravishing Rita Hayworth with an Oscar expressive of their appreciation is putting it mildly. For take a look at lovely Rita . . . as heart-warming as the summer sun . . . and as restful to the eye as the clear blue skies.

"Sheer loveliness" is the word for Rita . . . and her reposeful face is a challenge to every woman who recognizes the need to be self-confident, poised and personal. Too often we find women willing to let nature take its course . . . not willing to help in preserving complexion softness and glow.

Which reminds me of a story I heard a few days ago. In a group of women, the discussion turned to cosmetics and their worth. One woman said to another bluntly: "But cosmetics haven't made you beautiful." And the recipient's reply to that remark was classic: "No, maybe not, but I shudder to think what I would be like if I didn't use cosmetics."

And that's so true of complexion care. This or that cream may not suddenly turn you into Rita Hayworth complexion beauty . . . but just neglect your complexion and see what happens to it in a few years. That's why a certain lotion we're urging today can be as precious as pearls to you. You need only seven drops of this valuable amber-colored liquid for a complete treatment

Nothing has been spared to obtain the richest ingredients for this coveted cosmetic. Just place a drop on the forehead, on each eyelid, on each cheek, the nose and the chin . . . and with the gentle pressure of the fingertips and with upward and outward movements apply these precious pearl drops all over the face and throat . . . and let its unseen genius go to work in reviving the ageless look.

For the name of this 7-drop precious-as-pearls treatment, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LOVELINESS should be the name for every woman . . . and it comes only when the complexion is dewy and soft . . . as reposed as calm summer skies and as clear as crystal. Age is no barrier to a woman's charm . . . and for a charming countenance there is a 7-drop beauty treatment that can be as precious as pearls to an ageless look. Lovely Rita Hayworth . . . who recently won a coveted Oscar for "sheer loveliness" from recuperating GIs . . . gets our verbal oscar, too.

Canning Tips

By MARTHA LEE

INSTEAD of taking a whole day off to can in quantity, many homemakers prefer to do a few jars a day. Small batches of vegetables can be gathered from the garden as they reach the right stage, and an hour or so of canning can be included in the day's work.

This method is a time-saver. And canning can be further facilitated by having equipment assembled and given convenient storage quarters at the beginning of the canning season. Nothing is more confusing than having the equipment scattered haphazardly around the kitchen - getting in the way of the mealtime chores.

GIVE IT PRIORITY

Household equipment specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture suggest that canning equipment be given priority on space in cupboards and shelves near stove and sink for the duration of canning season. Other utensils, not used so much in summer, may be moved to high shelves or elsewhere.

JAR RINGS FOR CANNING

Jar rings this year are still made of synthetic and reclaimed rubber, but they have better sealing quality generally and less tendency to impart off-flavors to food. Extensive tests have been made of the 1945 jar rings, and here are the findings in brief:

1—New jar rings are definitely superior to those on the market in the last two years.

2—Black, brown and red rings are equally satisfactory. Color has no practical bearing on quality.

3—All rings have satisfactory sealing quality.

4—All jar rings in their cartons have a characteristic odor, but this does not necessarily give a flavor to the foods canned. Therefore, smelling new rings is not a reliable test of whether or not they will impart off-flavors to foods

WATER-BATH CANNER CHECK-UP

To help can fruits and tomatoes—the acid foods that require no steam pressure canner, half a million new enameled water-bath canners are being manufactured this year. In addition, uncounted water-bath canners will be homemade. These will be lard cans, metal pails, kettles, wash boilers, ham boilers, all kinds of "big, clean, and deep" vessels that can be fitted with rack and lid to do a good canning job.

When buying or assembling a water-bath canner, these "strategic" points should be checked:

Whether ready-made or homemade, a water-bath canner should be deep enough for the jars used. Most quart canning jars are eight inches tall, and pints six inches. A vessel must be at least three or four inches taller than the jars to allow for jar height, plus a rack, plus water to cover jars an inch or two and bubble up in a rolling boil. If a canner is too shallow, the water cannot boil up briskly over the jar tops to sterilize food throughout each jar.

Give a home-made canner a good rack. Occasionally, a home canner makes the mistake of buying or contriving a rack too big to fit. As a guide to size, measure the diameter of the canner. A rack for cooling bread or cake, or a wire basket, will often serve. Or a rack may be made-to-measure of wire or strips of wood. Don't use pine, because resin would boil out and get on the jars. Partitions in a rack are an advantage. They keep jars from touching one another and falling against sides of the canner.

Take note that a water-bath canner needs a good lid but not a tight lid. The lid's job is to hold in some steam to help heat the jars of food. If a lid fits very tight, a lard can lid, for example, remember to set the lid on lightly, so it will not bottle up enough steam to burst the can seam.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, TUESDAY—Yesterday afternoon a very triumphant secretary came to me and announced that at last, after all these weeks, we had succeeded in opening the last piece of mail which has come to this address between the date of my husband's death and the present.

It will, of course, be completely impossible to answer these thousands of letters, some of which included poems and pieces of music and money for various purposes in which the senders felt the President was interested.

Here in my column, however, I want to say again a word of thanks. I want to tell you how much it has meant to feel that so many people not only have felt a personal loss, but have appreciated my husband's leadership during the past twelve years.

A few people, of course, went even further back than that, back to the early days of service in the Legislature, the Navy Department or as Governor of the State of New York. Some remembered primarily the early days in Warm Springs when my husband was often friend and doctor and philosopher, before the staff came to take over their respective jobs.

★ ★ ★

I WISH WE HAD the ability to answer at least some of the letters which have come in, but aside from the lack of actual time and help, there is a shortage of paper! I would like to give you some examples of the kind of letters people have written, but there is little space and it would be hard to choose among so many messages.

One of my boys, writing from the Pacific, said he had been deeply touched by the efforts of the men under his command to express, often very shyly, their own sense of loss.

He added that one of the things he felt to be most outstanding about his father was the ability which had been granted him to make people who had never seen him feel that they knew him personally and that they could get confidence themselves from his strength.

★ ★ ★

THE RADIO, of course, has become a great instrument for bringing people together. Millions of people who have heard only voices on the radio have come to attach to those voices personalities and qualities of character.

In many of my letters there is a sense of loss because my husband's voice will no longer come into a living room or a kitchen in some remote corner of the United States.

To those who have written in such numbers, since I cannot say any individual words of thanks, I would like to send a thought:

Out of sorrow and loss must come renewed strength, and I know that my husband's hope would be that every citizen of this country will work a little harder than ever before at the business of being a citizen.

The Correct Thing

By ELINOR AMES

WRITE THE MESSAGE!—If you take a message for an office co-worker, leave it in writing on her desk. Don't "tell her when you see her!" It's annoying to have someone say, "Oh, I took a call for you this morning."

Real Movie Hat

By BETTINA BEDWELL

JOHN-FREDERICS have what they call a "movie hat," which is designed for you girls to wear to the movies, or to the theater, and with complete confidence that somebody behind you isn't going to ask you to take it off.

This hat is going to be a boon to millions of moviegoers, seems to me. It is completely flat on top, and completely flattering to the face of the girl who wears it.

One of those movie models is sketched John-Frederics make it of a bandeau of black satin, and for charm they put a large pink rose over the right ear, then add a tiny gray lace face veil for good measure. They have many different editions of the hat, but this will give you the general idea. It is one of the many hats that are mere skeletons of regular hats.

Hitler's Taxes

MUNICH, June 13 (AP)—Maj. Miner Phillipps, former city comptroller of Pasadena, Cal., said his investigators here found records showing Hitler in 1935 owed more than 400,000 marks in back taxes. The reichsminister of finance decided the fuehrer should not have to pay taxes and cancelled the entire amount.

Coleman Has Worked Miracle With Braves

By JACK CONWAY

BOB COLEMAN of the Braves is entitled to be classified as a genius as a baseball manager in view of the fact his club has won eight straight games despite the fact it has been handicapped by disappearing ball players. There was a time when the Braves could lose eight games in a row without any difficulty. In those days a two-game winning streak was something to call out one of the local American Legion bands and stage a parade.

Times are not what they used to be at the old Wigwam on Gaffney st. in more ways than one. General Manager John Quinn recently tossed $100,000 on the platter to secure Mort Cooper, dissatisfied Cardinals' pitcher, with the same nonchalance that a millionaire purchases $10 chips at a swanky gambling room.

Bob Coleman

There was a period when the only time $100,000 was mentioned in connection with the Braves was when there was a discussion of red ink figures or a note that was owed to the New York Giants.

When Bob Coleman was named manger of the Braves, he was given what most of the newsmen figured was merely a war duration job. The young men with talented writing ability pointed out that somebody has to manage the Braves and that it might as well be Coleman as some person who could not take punishment as well. It was agreed by the wise men of baseball that when the war ended that the Braves would open the office safe and pay enough money to get a so-called top manager who could make the headlines and also show his young players where first base was located.

★ ★ ★

Coleman Makes Good

COLEMAN TOOK a variety of good, fair and bad ball players and came up with a club that possesses plenty of dash, and which took on new life when Mort Cooper reported for duty. Bob, wise in the affairs of baseball, proved an expert in handling his available material.

Coleman was even able to convince 270-pound John Hutchings that he could go nine innings and win a ball game.

Holmes' terrific batting has been one of the strong points in the playing of the Braves this season. Holmes was placed in left field and Gillenwater in center field. This switch has helped Holmes a great deal. He openly admitted he couldn't play center field and when he was obliged to do so his batting fell off.

Gillenwater is one of the best ball hawks the Braves have ever had. As an outfielder, he rates with Dom DiMaggio, Tris Speaker, Harry Hooper and other famous Boston stars. Gillenwater looks particularly impressive when he is racing back towards the outfield fence for a ball. He can catch anything that is in the air provided it does not get outside of the baseball orchard.

★ ★ ★

Culler Classy Fielder

CULLER AT shortstop is a fast, classy infielder. He came through with a hit to drive in one of the runs that beat the Phillies.

Drews, Mack and Workman also showed good batting power against the Phillies. Workman is back in right field, and he should be a much better hitter than he has shown this year. Perhaps Coleman can find a way that will cause Workman to play top baseball.

Coleman is the same quiet, unassuming leader in victory that he was when the club was having rough going last season. If the Braves should get into a World Series, Bob would probably have to introduce himself to the gate man to get into the ball park.

A keen baseball student like Coleman is able to handle the type of material that composes the average big league club today much better than some of the more colorful managers who must have standout stars to get results.

I am going to check with Bill Grimes and Joe Cashman to make certain that there isn't something phoney about the story that the Braves have won eight straight ball games.

Braves Win 9th in Row As Cooper Beats Phils

By BILL GRIMES

BRAVES FIELD, June 13—The bleac her band played on, Mort Cooper pitched on, the Braves went on winning and the Phils w ent on losing. So it was in the opening game of yesterday's twin-bill as Cooper chalked up his sixth straight triumph, the Warriors ran their victory string to nine straight and the hapless Blue Jays went down to their 16th straight defeat.

The score was 8-3.

Cooper, pitching with a two-day rest hurled six-hit ball for his fourth Tribal decision. He trailed at the end of his third inning on the hill. A single by Rene Monteagudo, who made three, and a triple by Vance Dinges came in the second.

A homer by shortstop Walter Flager, just reporting from the Cincinnati Reds landed in the bull pen in the third.

Then the Braves took over.

Thumping Tom Holmes laced out his sixth homer in the last of the third. That was one of three hits in three tries by the major league's leading hitter. It left the Tribe still a run behind, but not for long.

Seven times the Coleman counted in the fourth. They called it a day after that uprising against Dick "Cupie" Barrett. They were too tired from laughing to do any damage against Woonsocket's Louis Lucier.

Braves-Phillies Trade Weighed

During this visit of the Blue Jays, General Managers Jack Quinn and Herb Pennock may be able to get together today on a trade. The Phillies are badly in need of strength and the Braves have players that would help them. However, Jack Quinn is in the market for another pitcher and a right-hand hitting outfielder and he will not agree to turn over any players until he fills his own needs.

Eddie Joost, who broke his left wrist Sunday, received permission yesterday to return to his home in California. He will be out of action for at least three weeks. There wasn't any reason why he should hang around here while convalescing. He went West by plane and unless he was "bumped off" somewhere along the line he will arrive in San Francisco today.

Landrigan, Ex-HC Star, Wounded; He's Hero to Men

By SGT. JOSEPH P. DONAHUE

Marine Corps Combat Correspondent

OKINAWA (delayed) (INS)—Bearded stretcher bearers put down the litter near a foxhole to get a little rest before making the rest of the trip to an aid station. Their burden was Marine 2d Lt. James M. Landrigan, former Holy Cross College football star and resident of Wakefield, Mass.

Three occupants of the foxhole looked at the man on the stretcher and heard him say to the bearers, "Take it easy fellows, I'm pretty heavy I guess."

As the stretcher moved toward the rear, Cpl. Henry Dunn of Dinsmore, Fla., shouted, "It's big Jim."

Cpl. Nolan Drake of Brea, Cal., stared at the retreating stretcher to make sure. "As usual," he said, "Big Jim wanted to look over the ground before ordering us forward."

The trio discussed the incidents that made Landrigan "the best platoon leader we've ever had."

Pvt. George Hughes of Girard, Ill., said this about him:

"We were smoking out caves a few days ago. How 'Big Jim' escaped getting hit then is beyond me. He was always first up to the mouth of a cave, and all he carried was a carbine.

"And every time we got into trouble he always lifted his head for a look up and down the platoon lines, shouting, 'Keep your heads down, you guys.'"

Landrigan is the son of Mrs. George C. Landrigan of 125 Vernon st., Wakefield. Hospital corpsmen said his wound was not serious.

Metko Standing Up As Mates Hit Skids

By HUCK FINNEGAN

PHILADELPHIA, June 13—One chap who hasn't fallen down on the job while the Sox have been losing their last three games is George "Cat" Metkovich. Since the angular first sacker came out of his batting slump on June 3 against the Tigers, he has made 17 hits in 35 trips to the plate (almost a .500 average) and has batted in eight runs.

Two of these RBI came on a seventh inning homer against Allan Gettel in New York last Friday and gave the Sox their last victory, a 6-4 decision over the Yanks.

Two more came on an eighth inning homer in Tuesday's game with the A's here. It had all the appearances of the clincher, but Red Barrett blew the lead and the A's went on to win, 7 to 5, in the 12th on Siebert's homer.

The "Cat" was practically the entire Sox offense. In the first inning his double scored Lake. Bucher scored and the "Cat" went to third when Peck kicked the ball around. It looked like a big inning but Kell converted Fox's torrid liner into a double play.

Metkovich singled again in the third, hit his two-run homer in the eighth, singled Bucher to third in the 12th only to have Estalella run down Johnson's bid for a game-winning double.

Had the Sox pitching approached respectability, the "Cat" would be headlined today instead of Siebert because the game would not have gone into extra innings.

Since June 3 he has lifted his batting mark from a lowly .243 to the .290's. If he could hit in the spring and if he were a mite more consistent, he could be among the all-time greats. He's got all kinds of talent. Since he's only 23, he may yet reach the top.

For the second time running, Barrett was unsteady in relief. Succeeding Wilson with one on, none out in the eighth and with a 5-3 lead Barrett walked McGhee and Kell, let Siebert hit a 2-0 pitch for a two-run single to tie the game. Friday in New York, after relieving Hausmann, Barrett wobbled and Vic Johnson raced to the rescue.

Mike Ryba gets a starting shot against the A's in tonight's game (9 p. m.) but Mike will have to go back to the bull pen if Barrett can't hold the fort. In Boston, Red looked unhitable when he gave way to pinch hitter Ferriss in the ninth, Terry took over, got by until he threw his patented home run ball to Siebert.

Ryba beat Gromek 1-0 in a night masterpiece in Cleveland last year, lost a 1-0 night decision to Sig Jakucki in St. Louis the last week of the season. Both were low-hit efforts . . . If Ryba wins tonight Hausmann will go tomorrow, letting Cronin pit Ferriss against Pieretti in Washington Friday evening as the twin bill feature. That would please Pa-in-law Griff . . . Seven pitchers were used in Tuesday's game, with Christopher, last of four A's, getting credit for his 10th win.

Metko's fourth inning homer was his first as a major leaguer. In the ninth he missed a second homer by a foot, the ball bounding off the wall for a double . . . Wilkins had one ball on him in the eighth when he was lifted for pinch-hitter McGhee.

Berry had one ball on him in the ninth when he was lifted for pinch-hitter George. "Make up your mind," the Sox barked at Cornelius McGillicuddy

Losing Scholastic Coaches Moaning

By MIKE GILLOOLY

If you happened to see a couple of fellows crying on each others' shoulders and mumbling that 'you can't win 'em all', you undoubtedly were a witness to the meeting between coaches Sheldon Goodrich of Walpole High School and Jim Burns of Coyle High of Taunton.

The pair jumped onto Dave Ferriss' bandwagon as they retired from the Schoolboy Writers' Ass'n Eastern State baseball championship at Fenway Park.

And how they bowed out! If anybody should ever tell you that schoolboy baseball is just like the game that's played anywhere, don't believe it. More can happen in schoolboy ranks than in a three ring circus. And it did as Walpole dropped a 1-0 count to Milton and Coyle was blasted to an 11-2 count at the hands of Medford—the twin winners making up the Friday pairing at Fenway.

Walpole had chalked up 11 straight before the Milton game. Its ace pitcher, Al Meau, scheduled to report to the armed forces Saturday, turned in one of his top performances, allowing only four hits. His mates combed Everett Goodwin for seven blows but still couldn't score a run. And the seven hits were assisted by three Milton errors.

But in winning, Milton had to score on an error.

The Coyle-Medford tilt was a classic, however, with Leo Lucy attempting to steal third base twice while it was occupied, finally being run down.

Neither team could get the other out in the ninth inning and both left the bases clogged. Coyle had been scored on only 22 times in 17 previous victories but the Mustangs came up with 11 tallies without benefit of a real, long hit.

Milton and Medford should provide a slick final. Both have tasted defeat and both will have their ace pitchers ready for this big test.

Coach Bob Osborne of Milton will send Everett Goodwin, property of the Red Sox, right back to the mound for his third championship test. He previously whipped Boston English in his team's opener but he still has to hit the peak of his form. Goodwin is fast and has some tricky curves but he hasn't been pulling the string on his pitches as he did earlier in the campaign.

Coach Art Tirrell will bring Joe DiBiase in from centerfield after nearly two weeks' rest for this wind-up. Coach Tirrell gambled with southpaw Charlie Garrity in topping Coyle so that his ace would be ready for Milton.

Both undefeated twirlers will be ready for the coin-tossing at 3 p. m., Friday.

Commissioning

Heads bowed in prayer, the officers and men of the USS Turner, new 2200-ton destroyer, listen to the Navy chaplin's invocation during commissioning exercises at Boston Navy Yard. Framed by the ship's guns, the crew heard Rear Adm. Felix Gygax, Navy Yard commandant, turn the ship over to Com. Ellis B. Rittenhouse.
